In response to a duly justified request by a rights holder whose rights are under collective management, a CMO shall forthwith allow the rights holder to access its documents and data.

Dispute resolution

Article 67

A CMO shall ensure that its members, the rights holders and other collective management organisations which are parties to a representation agreement have access to effective dispute resolution in accordance with the existing legislation of the Republic of Slovenia and international umbrella associations and organisations composed of collective management organisations at international level.

Article 68

The CMO members, rights holders, and other collective management organisations, which are parties in representation agreements, shall be able – regardless of the possibilities the existing legislation of the Republic of Slovenia offers – to lodge a complaint with the management regarding the rights management authorisation, membership requirements, compensation collection and rights revenue distribution, and the organisation operation costs.

A person required to pay compensation for the use of phonograms shall also be able to lodge a complaint; however, only regarding the compensation collection.

Complaints shall include an explanation, evidence the complainants are able to acquire, request for evidence to be carried out by the management during the complaint resolution and/ or evidence obtaining process the complainants, if so demonstrated, are not able to acquire by themselves.

The complaint shall be lodged not later than within 60 days from finding the alleged infringement or irregularity. The management shall decide on the complaint within 60 days from the day of the receipt of the complaint and send its decision in writing to the complainant or inform the complainant within the same time frame of the delay of the decision due to circumstances which shall be explicitly referred to and described. In such cases a tentative deadline for making the decision shall be provided.

When the complaint is not upheld, the management shall state the grounds for such a decision.

The management's decision on the complaint is final.
